Thank you!

Dear PCDS Faculty,

As these weeks of significant change and challenges continue to unfold, we can't help but to be immensely grateful for you and everything that you have done for our children and our families.

In many ways, COVID is an education for all of us, but it is especially impactful for our young children who are particularly impressionable at these young ages. Every day that you have shown up to teach them, despite the odds, is teaching them powerful lessons about how to solve problems and adapt to difficult circumstances, how to be courageous in the face of challenge and how to always find the best even in the worst. "Thank you" doesn't seem powerful enough to express what this has meant to us, because we know that when all is said and done, and our children are all grown-up, they will have memories of these unusual, but very formative times. However, we are confident that these memories will be painted by the laughter they have been able to share in these days at school and by the comfort and security you have fostered in your classrooms.

Thank you for your strength, thank you for your resiliency, thank you for your example and thank you for sharing in this journey of parenthood with us, no matter the circumstances.

Happy Thanksgiving!

With love,
The Parents Association

Art with Adam is back!

Now on Wednesday afternoons at 4pm on zoom! Great for children of all ages!

I started "Art with Adam" at the start of the pandemic, using art to spread happiness and joy to those children who are stuck inside all day!

I'll be drawing along with children and giving some basic, child friendly art lessons!

We will be talking about lines, shapes and colors. Highlighting special artists and styles from week to week. Let's share our stories and make some art together!

I am happy to be back and I thank you all for joining me on this adventure!
